Intentia lands another big one. Signs contract with Auto Distribution.

Stockholm, Sweden and Osny, Morangis, France–Intentia International AB (publ) (XSSE: INT B) today signed a contract with Auto Distribution, the FF 7.5 billion European market leader in the independent distribution market of equipment for cars and trucks. The Movex e-collaboration solution will be used by 6,000 users within Auto Distribution as well as its distributors.

Auto Distribution's objective is to create highly effective business processes that will put it ahead of its competitors and ensure its future success as the leader in the auto parts distribution market. Selecting a strategic partner for the IT-solution is crucial to the success of the project.

Auto Distribution selected the Movex e-collaboration solution from Intentia after a detailed review of solutions from SAP, Oracle and JD Edwards. The main reason why Auto Distribution chose the Movex e-collaboration solution was because of the perfect fit that Movex can offer to solve the critical business processes for large enterprises as well as small companies in the world of specialized distribution in the auto parts industry. In addition, the technology leadership that Movex Java-based technology offers was of high priority to Auto Distribution. Movex will be a critical part of Auto Distribution's future e-business strategy.

"Already in May this year we launched an Internet-based product catalog that enabled our customers to choose parts and the right components. The catalog makes it easier to select the right products at the best prices for the cars currently under repair," says Mr. Oliver Van Ruymbeke, Managing Director, Auto Distribution. "Movex is the strategic solution that will allow Auto Distribution to propose real value-added Internet-based services to each of our market segments such as vehicle diagnosis, advice to management, and assembly diagrams."

"We are proud that Auto Distribution selected Intentia as its strategic supplier and partner. This deal is yet more evidence of the market leadership Intentia has taken in the world of complex logistics, particularly in the business-to-business distribution market. Movex Retail is the perfect choice for Auto Distribution since it combines specific components dedicated to the retail industry with leading e-business technology in a single integrated solution," comments Mr. Franck Cohen, General Manager, Intentia France.
