SHOWER FACILITIES PROVIDE A REFRESHING CHANGE AT BRISTOL INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Bristol International Airport has introduced refreshing new facilities for passengers flying Business First with Continental Airlines. Travellers arriving on the transatlantic service from Newark now have access to on-site executive showers, enabling them to freshen up following the overnight flight from the US.

The showers (including a facility for passengers with reduced mobility) are conveniently located in the terminal building and stocked with luxury Temple Spa products.

Passengers can pre-arrange use of the showers at the time of booking or during the flight to Bristol. Previously such facilities were only available off-site in partnership with a local hotel.

Jason Wescott, Head of Sales at Bristol International Airport, said:

Many business passengers arrive from New York and head straight to morning meetings across Bristol and the South West. The shower facilities mean that they can now arrive refreshed and firing on all cylinders.

As well as access to the new showers, Continental's Business First passengers also receive free car parking in reserved spaces close the terminal, fast-track security and access to the business lounge at Bristol International.

Bristol International's executive showers are exclusively available to Continental passengers, but could be rolled out to those travelling with other airlines in the coming months subject to customer demand.
