Alfa Laval's Capital Markets Day, November 17

We have the pleasure to invite you to our Capital Markets Day on November 17, 2009. The event will take place at the Hilton Copenhagen Airport Hotel, Denmark, starting at 10:30 a.m. CET and ending at approximately 4:30 p.m. CET.

Lars Renström, President and CEO, will present the areas Alfa Laval prioritized when global demand declined, followed by his view on where he sees Alfa Laval after the downturn. Thomas Thuresson, CFO, will give an update on financial matters.

You will also get an opportunity to hear Susanne Pahlén Åklundh, head of the Equipment Division, and Svante Karlsson, head of the Process Technology Division, go through the latest developments in their respective divisions. Furthermore, they will talk about new environmental technology trends – such as carbon capture and heat pumps using carbon dioxide as a refrigerant – and the opportunities these trends create for Alfa Laval.

The day will end with final remarks as well as a general Q&A session.

After the presentations, we are pleased to invite you to a traditional Scanian roast goose dinner. The dinner will take place in Skanör, Sweden, and end at approximately 9:00 p.m. CET.

Looking forward to seeing you in Copenhagen!

Lars Renström
