EDS and Framfab to Form Strategic Alliance EDS Proposed to be Represented in Framfab's Board of Directors

EDS and Framfab today announced the formation of a strategic alliance in Europe, starting in Sweden, Norway and Denmark. EDS is the second largest IT Company in the world and Framfab one of the world's leading Internet Consultancy Firms. Together with the Management Consultancy Firm A.T. Kearney, a subsidiary to EDS, the companies are now establishing a powerful trio with the aim of being a leading player in the Scandinavian market.

"EDS and Framfab is a perfect match, which is why we chose them as a partner. We are a rock-solid IT company with a great client list. They are a young, very innovative company with competencies that will give us distinct competitive advantages in Scandinavia," said Kaj Green, CEO of EDS Nordic. "Framfab is the most interesting company within their industry and we are extremely happy to partner with them."

The alliance will cover three lines of business:

- Business Consulting. Framfab will strengthen its offer within Business Consulting by co-operating with A.T. Kearney in client projects.
- Internet Projects. EDS and Framfab will co-operate in offering advanced services and IT solutions for existing as well as new clients.
- Web Hosting. EDS will take over Driftbolaget's operations and EDS will supply web hosting services to Framfab's existing and new clients.

As part of the agreement, EDS is proposed to be represented in Framfab's Board of Directors.

Johan Wall, CEO of Framfab, is very pleased with the agreement.

"This alliance forms a strong base for the future offerings to our clients. EDS is a perfect partner for us, a company with great experience and a great client list. Moreover, it makes a co-operation with A.T. Kearney possible," said Johan Wall.

A press conference will take place at Nordic Hotels (Sea), Vasaplan, Stockholm, today, Tuesday, April 17 at 10 AM.
