iPlanet signs partnership agreement with Cell Network Sweden

Cell Network Sweden has entered into a partnership agreement with software supplier, iPlanet E-commerce Solutions.

iPlanet is a global supplier of server software for organisations wishing to expand their business model via the Internet. The company was founded in 1999 as an alliance between Sun and America Online (AOL), and the bulk of its customers operate in the areas of telecommunications, banking, finance and manufacturing. iPlanet is now expanding into the Scandinavian market. Cell Network Sweden has been selected as one of the company's partners in this venture.

- We depend on competent partners who are able to take responsibility for the delivery of strategic projects to our customers. Cell Network is one such partner, and we have already seen positive effects of the collaboration we have started, says Niklas Åström, Regional Manager iPlanet for Nordic and the Baltic Region.

Even now, Cell Network Sweden and iPlanet are collaborating on a couple of major projects involving server platforms for a number of websites. Cell Network has been responsible for the development and is now in charge of operation.

- iPlanet focuses on high security and accessibility, a fact which allows us to increase security and reduce risks in our joint projects. We now have the know-how to take charge of the operation of this type of very-high-security platform. And because of this, we are able to address a wider customer group than before, comments Robert Åberg, Project Manager, Cell Network Sweden.
