

Semcon is expanding and has recruited key person to Zipper by Semcon

Since its start in August 2000, Zipper by Semcon has rapidly expanded. Since August 2000, the company has signed up over 60 qualified IT consultants with wide-ranging experience. To ensure continued profitable growth, Michael Gustavsson, the former MD of Framfab Sverige AB and Guide, has been employed.

"Michael Gustavsson will contribute to strengthening Zipper's position on the market," says Johan De Verdier, the recently appointed CEO at Zipper by Semcon. "Michael's experience will give us an even stronger organisation, where we can supply our customers with packaged IT solutions that have a concrete effect for them."

"I look forward to working in an organisation with the kind of enthusiasm and focus on the future that Zipper by Semcon has, and with customers who have a strong belief in what Zipper provides," says Michael Gustavsson.

"The expanding activities at Zipper are an excellent addition to Semcon's original IT activity which focuses on product development in industry and leads the way in products' IT and the production process. Our service at Zipper has meant Semcon has been able to broaden its IT activities to IT infrastructure and strategies and thereby reach new customer groups," says Hans Johansson, CEO at Semcon. "Furthermore, we have succeeded in attracting experienced personnel within the ever expanding IT sector, which is obviously very important and pleasing."

ZIPPER by Semcon was started in August 2000. Zipper's services are based on packaged IT solutions combined with consultancy services. Zipper provides IT platforms with stability and layered regulations. The solution focuses on the general components available in each IT structure. The aim is enhance efficiency and productivity for our customers. Customers include Vattenfall, Orkla, Akzo Nobel, Region Skåne, SAS and AstraZeneca.
