Atlas Copco delisted from Dusseldorf and Hamburg Stock Exchanges

Atlas Copco AB has decided to delist its shares from Dusseldorf and Hamburg Stock Exchanges as per June 30, 2001.

The trade of the Atlas Copco share will now be concentrated to Stockholmsbörsen in Stockholm, Sweden, London Stock Exchange in London, England, and Frankfurter Wertpapierbörse in Frankfurt, Germany.

The Atlas Copco Group is an international industrial company with its head office in Stockholm, Sweden. In 2000, the Group had revenues of $5 billion USD, with 98 percent of revenues outside Sweden, and close to 27,000 employees. Atlas Copco companies develop, manufacture, and market electric and pneumatic tools, compressed air equipment and generators, construction and mining equipment, assembly systems, and offer related service and equipment rental.
