LinkMed to change name to Allenex and relocate Swedish transplantation companies to one location

The LinkMed Board of Directors proposes to the Annual General Meeting to be convened on May 10 to change the name of the company from LinkMed AB to Allenex AB. All Swedish transplantation companies in the transplantation group will move to new common production and office facilities in Kungsholmen, Stockholm. Olerup SSP and AbSorber have already moved to the new premises and the parent company will follow in early May.

The strategic decision made in September 2010, to focus the future business on the transplantation field has led to a need to create a new common identity and a unified brand for the businesses in this area. The LinkMed Board of Directors therefore proposes to the Annual General Meeting May 10, 2011 to change its corporate name from LinkMed AB to Allenex AB for its future transplantation business.

"The change of name to Allenex is an important step in further clarifying our new strategic focus on transplantation. The name Allenex has clear links to genetics (alleles) and transplantation (TX)," says Ingemar Lagerlöf the CEO of LinkMed.

Olerup SSP and AbSorber are subsidiaries of LinkMed and part of the LinkMed Group. The Group also includes the U.S. sales company Olerup Inc. LinkMed AB will be the first company in the group to change name to Allenex.
