SIX is launching a new mobile financial service based on Sectra's CitySurfer

The Swedish IT and medical technology company Sectra is cooperating with SIX, the leading supplier of financial information in the Nordic region, in the launch of a new mobile financial service based on Sectra's CitySurfer. The new service named SIX Pocket offers financial and stock market participants instant updates of share prices and financial news in real time.

SIX Pocket is the market's easiest and quickest mobile financial information service. The service includes share prices, interest rates, foreign exchange information and financial news. The platform used is Sectra's CitySurfer mobile information terminal. CitySurfer is a pocket sized receiver that provides real-time information transmitted via the radio network, with nationwide coverage in Sweden.

"We consider that SIX Pocket will prove invaluable for participants in the financial markets since it is the quickest and most reliable way of keeping in touch with the market wherever you are" says Ulrika Forsström, Marketing Coordinator and Product Manager Mobile Services at SIX. "The combination of instant updates of share prices and financial news and an easy-to-use pocket sized terminal is a new thing on the market".

"We are introducing a new channel for real-time information, in cooperation with the leading supplier of financial information in the Nordic region," says Dick Ollas, President of Sectra Wireless Technologies AB. "Our partnership with SIX will provide a crucial reference point for similar cooperation in mobile financial services in other countries."
