Celsius:

Simulator order for the Swedish Air Force

Celsius business unit CelsiusTech Systems has received an order for further development of Strics, and the integration of STRIC and Strics, from the Swedish Defence Materiel Administration (FMV). The order is estimated to be worth approximately SEK 65 M.

The result of this project is of considerable importance to the continuation of the Swedish Air Force's and FMV's training and verification activities in the combat-management and air-surveillance sectors.
