Reuters sign preferred supplier agreement with Cybercom

Reuters, the leading global supplier of financial information and news, and Cybercom have confirmed their long standing strategic partnership with the formal signing of a Consultancy Services Framework Agreement.

The Agreement covers all areas of the Reuters business and provides a global framework for the provision of consultancy, integration, project delivery and application management services.

"This framework represents a tremendous achievement given that it was secured against the highly competitive background of the Reuters Global Sourcing rationalisation programme", commented John Baun, MD Cybercom's operation in the UK.
