

Pointsec signs agreement with Dutch Government organization

– Sells 5,000 plus licenses for Pointsec® for PC

Pointsec Mobile Technologies, a subsidiary of IT security company Protect Data and a global leader in enterprise security software for laptops, desktops, PDAs and smart phones, today announced it has signed a major software license agreement with a Dutch Government organization. The licenses were delivered in September 2003.

The Dutch Government organization is already a Pointsec customer and has now chosen to increase the amount of licenses.

Pointsec is the market leader in mobile security and protects all data residing on any mobile device through access control and encryption. The company offers its customers solutions for Windows-based computers, Pocket PC, Palm and Symbian.

Pointsec Mobile Technologies has been developing advanced IT security solutions for 15 years. The company has earned important security certifications, such as FIPS 140-1, considered the de facto IT security standard. Starting a couple of months ago, Pointsec is in the process of certifying its security solution Pointsec® for Pocket PC in accordance with Common Criteria, Evaluation Assurance Level 4 (EAL4). Pointsec has received much acclaim for its exclusive patent-pending PicturePIN™ and QuickPIN™ authentication, which replace traditional alphanumeric login passwords with a memorable picture-based login codes.

Secure enterprise solutions for an increasingly mobile workforce have helped Pointsec build a strong and thriving client base amongst many of the world's largest corporations including the U.S. Department of Justice, U.S. Department of Defense, U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency, WM-data, Cap Gemini Ernst & Young, Cisco, Telia and Ericsson.
