About Telelogic (Stockholm Stock Exchange:TLOG)

Telelogic is established in ten countries under its own name, and a further 20 countries through distributors. It leads the market in development environments for technical software, especially in real time applications. By offering high quality graphical development tools and related services, Telelogic makes the development of software more rapid, less labor intensive, and more reliable.

The company has a global client base, including the majority of the leading suppliers such as Alcatel, Cisco, Ericsson, Fujitsu, Hewlett-Packard, Lucent, Motorola, NEC, Nokia, Nortel Networks and Siemens, as well as a number of universities and institutions all over the world.

The software market is moving towards more visual programming methods, and Telelogic leads in the production of the next generation of development tools, in this
