Swedish Administrative Court of Appeal rules on a reduction of the interconnect fees Tele2 demanded from TeliaSonera

In its two decisions of February 8, 2007, the Swedish Administrative Court of Appeal decided for a reduction of the historical interconnect fees that Tele2 demanded TeliaSonera. One of the decisions relates to so called cascade traffic, traffic transferred via TeliaSonera's fixed network. The other decision relates to calls that are initiated in TeliaSonera's fixed and mobile networks and terminated in Tele2's network.

"It is satisfying that the Administrative Court of Appeal shares TeliaSonera's opinion that the prices charged by Tele2 have been too high. The court decision can lead to more reasonable demands for interconnection fees, which should increase the possibilities for settling several more old conflicts over interconnection fees in accordance with the Swedish Telecom Act, through agreements between operators", comments Anders Igel, President and CEO, TeliaSonera AB.

The decisions by the Administrative Court of Appeal might be appealed. To take this case further to the Supreme Administrative Court a leave to appeal is necessary. TeliaSonera will reverse previously made provisions related to this case, which will positively affect the results, before non-recurring items and taxes, by approximately SEK 390 million in 2006.

TeliaSonera has simultaneously an earlier claim against Tele2. On May 2, 2006, the District Court in Stockholm ruled that Tele2 is to pay slightly more than SEK 1 billion, plus interest, to TeliaSonera for calls initiated in Tele2's network and terminated in TeliaSonera's fixed and mobile networks. As previously communicated the ruling by the District Court has no impact on TeliaSonera's operating results, although the payment by Tele2 will have a positive effect on cash flow when it is received.

TeliaSonera's intention is to net the payments which result from the decisions made by the Administrative Court of Appeal on February 8, 2007, and the decision made by the District Court on May 2, 2006, which would mean that the decisions made by the Administrative Court of Appeal will not have any negative effect on TeliaSonera's cash flow.
