Elanders and Sandvik Coromant in collaboration

Elanders and Sandvik Coromant have worked together on catalogue production a long time. They now plan to intensify this collaboration with the intention of developing a more cost efficient and rational publishing process.

The 3-year contract is worth approximately MSEK 35.

Sandvik Coromant is a world-leading supplier of carbide tools and tool systems for work with metal. Sandvik Coromant annually produces catalogue material in 17 different languages.

Elanders is the leading Nordic supplier of products and services for information management and publishing in any media combined with graphic production.

The intention of the contract is to improve established graphic production flows. The contract also includes a feasibility study of the module-based publishing system Galapagos <sup>TM</sup>. The objective is to have Galapagos <sup>TM</sup> contribute to the automation of most of Sandvik Coromant's publishing process. This means Elanders can offer one-stop solutions for publishing information in any media.

Dormer Tools, a subsidiary in the Sandvik Group, has previously signed an order to buy Galapagos <sup>TM</sup>.
