

Bure Equity comments on the National Tax Board's examination of investment companies

The National Tax Board, RSV, has announced its intention to examine short-term securities trading in Swedish investment companies to establish whether this is of importance for the tax status of the investment companies.

"We have been informed about the tax authority's decision. On Bure's part, the examination will commence during the current year. In Bure Equity, we have consistently taken great pains to ensure that our trading operations are fully in compliance with the legislation for investment companies," says Knut Leman, Head of Corporate Communications of Bure Equity AB.
