IBS wins order from leading US distributor of medical equipment

Merry X-Ray, leading US distributor of radiology equipment and products in the field of medical imaging, has signed an agreement with IBS for ASW business software. The order includes solutions for e-business and supply chain management, inventory control, after sales services, VMI and financials, as well as business and profitability analysis. The order value is some SEK 10m.

Merry X-Ray, with its operations in 25 states in the US, has advanced requirements regarding e-business, customer service and logistics.

- The order is well in line with IBS' focus on B2B e-business supply chain management, says Magnus Wastenson, VP International Marketing, IBS. The market is entering a new phase. Before, you often had to tailor advanced e-business systems. Many companies have now discovered ready-to-implement software packages with sophisticated functions for both Internet communication and the underlying logistics and business systems. IBS holds a leading position in this field, a position confirmed by, among others, the US market analysts, AMR Research.
