Euroseek.com and jahaya.com create private financial forum

The Internet service Euroseek and the independent insurance broker jahaya.com have in the last few days closed an agreement to create a new private financial forum.

Visitors to the Euroseek.com portal will now obtain independent advice around different types of pension and personal insurance coverage. They will also receive insurance offers and be able to obtain a full overview of all their personal insurance.

Euroseek is reinforcing its investments in information and services specially designed for private persons through this co-operation.

“Euroseek wants to be both a leading information resource and an appreciated meeting place for business and pleasure,” says Catherine Sahlgren, CEO of Euroseek.

“Euroseek’s strong Swedish platform and international coverage is very interesting for us,” says Per Eliasson, Managing Director of jahaya.com. “There is a strong demand for good private financial guidance, and Euroseek is a suitable collaborative partner for us,” he adds.

Euroseek and jahaya.com will initially co-operate round insurance, but expect to successively expand the content and co-operation towards other countries and languages.

Euroseek.com’s visitors are offered an insurance portfolio free of charge with jahaya.com to a value of 250 SEK. This service is already available at www.euroseek.com.
