Defence and security company Saab has received a contract to provide the planned and corrective maintenance and capital expenditure works for the electronic security system for the 300 bed Southern Queensland Correctional Centre. The contract has a total value of MSEK 166.

Located near Gatton in the Lockyer Valley and opened in January 2012, the 300-bed Southern Queensland Correctional Centre is the State's newest prison. The electronic security system was originally installed by Saab in the centre and has been under comprehensive maintenance since the facility opened. The system provides an integrated surveillance picture and total control of security sensors and locks within the prison environment.

The contract will run for 14 years and will involve the Security and Defence Solutions operations in Adelaide, Australia.
