Saab signs support contract with the British Army

Defence and security company Saab has signed a support contract with the British Army. The contract, amounting to approximately MSEK 150, covers the maintenance and support of delivered training systems used by British Army.

This contract is an extension of existing support contract and enables the British Army high performance combat training on the training areas in UK, Canada and Germany. Saab will provide the service for a period of two years with options to extend.

“We will continue to support our delivered training systems which still meet the customers need of high performance training. This, once again, confirms that Saab deliver robust modular training system and excellent services. Saab keep up the strong position as supplier of services within military training in UK.”, says Henrik Höjer, general manager for training and simulation at Saab.

Saab serves the global market with world-leading products, services and solutions ranging from military defence to civil security. Saab has operations and employees on all continents and constantly develops, adopts and improves new technology to meet customers' changing needs.
