Saab receives training order from the U.S. Army

Saab Defense and Security USA LLC, the US entity of global defence and security company Saab, has received an additional order from the U.S. Army for radio systems which are used in data communications for live training. The order has a total value of 20 million USD (approximately 135 MSEK).

The order comprises additional options of the Live Training Transformation Interim Range System (LT2-IRS). A contract awarded to Saab in April 2011 by the U.S. Army Program Executive Office for Simulation, Training and Instrumentation (PEO STRI). The new options are valued at 20 million USD. Development and production will take place in Sweden and the US.

Under LT2-IRS, with the options, Saab is fielding communication network systems with more than 11,000 radios to enable soldiers to engage in instrumented force on force training at the Army home stations.

“This additional order is a further confirmation of our strong position as a long-term training partner to the U.S. Armed Forces,” says Lars Borgwing, President of Saab Defense and Security USA LLC.

“Under LT2-IRS, Saab is providing a proven and future-proof data communication system that ties together the U.S. Army’s existing instrumented training assets into an integrated end-to-end Homestation solution.

Saab serves the global market with world-leading products, services and solutions ranging from military defence to civil security. Saab has operations and employees on all continents and constantly develops, adopts and improves new technology to meet customers’ changing needs.
