Saab signs general agreement with Swedish Defense Materiel Administration for consulting services

The Saab owned AerotechTelub has signed a general agreement with the Swedish Defense Materiel Administration, FMV, for consulting services focusing on resource consultants in the fields of Sensors and Telecom Services. The framework agreement is valid for two years with an option for a further two years in total. The order is worth a total of MSEK 100 a year for all 10 suppliers with which the FMV has signed general agreements.

"We have been working in consultancy in the areas of Sensors and Telecom Services for many years. The general agreement with the FMV provides confirmation that we have the right expertise and a high quality of consulting service, something we're very proud of," says Mikael Höglund, division manager at AerotechTelub.

The general agreement covers consulting services in e.g. tactical telecommunications, tactical sensor systems, radar and electronic warfare, power supply, signal environments and installation design, with services such as project management, systems design, studies, specification, testing, control and procurement support.
