

US imaging group improves radiology services with regional IT solution from Sectra

Six San Diego County locations of Valley Radiology Consultants are now using PACS, RIS and Breast Imaging PACS from the medical imaging IT company, Sectra. These integrated IT solutions will assist the group to improve workflow, report turnaround and service to its referring physician community.

“We selected Sectra’s products to help us meet meaningful use objectives, gain a competitive advantage and support our future growth,” says Chief Executive Officer, Robert Muehlberg.

Sectra PACS allows reading from any site, regardless of imaging location, and provides referring physicians the ability to view images and reports on their tablet devices. Sectra RIS, a CCHIT® certified EHR module, is designed to grow with Valley Radiology Consultants as they expand their practice and allows them to qualify for funding by supporting the Stage 1 meaningful use measures in the US. Sectra Breast Imaging PACS enables radiologists to efficiently review all modalities from the same workstation, while taking advantage of important features such as breast density measurement.

“With our focus on providing a competitive advantage by meeting and exceeding the requirements of the referring physicians, we are excited to watch the success of Valley Radiology for the long-term,” says President of Sectra North America, Mikael Anden.
