

Press Release

April 18, 2007

TeliaSonera serves Global Netoptex with complete gaming networking services

TeliaSonera International Carrier, Europe's largest IP carrier will provide California based Global Netoptex Inc. (GNI) with its global IP network as GNI prepares to launch its new online games services platform which will support more than 25 titles from multiple publishers and developers.

According to Derek Wise, GNI president and CEO, GNI plans to deploy the TeliaSonera International Carrier Global IP Network to provide the speed and reliability it needs to host its online gaming infrastructure. "We selected TeliaSonera International Carrier in order to expand our operations into Europe and support the initial release of online games this summer, Derek Wise explains.

TeliaSonera International Carrier in partnership with IXEurope will also provide GNI with high density co-location facilities located in Frankfurt, Germany.

GNI, in partnership with OGSi, is one of the leading providers of managed Internet services in the United States, offering robust, highly competitive infrastructure and bandwidth to the games industry.

"We are delighted that GNI has selected TeliaSonera International Carrier global IP Network. We will provide our services in support of GNI's move into the fast growing online gaming area. We are striving to provide complete solutions for our customers, enabling the best gaming experience possible, as we look to become the provider of choice to the online gaming industry," says Adam Sawicki, Vice President and Head of Sales West Europe & North America, TeliaSonera International Carrier.
