Lars Öhlin New CEO of Dynawind AB

Lars Öhlin has been recruited internally as the new CEO of Dynawind AB, where he has previously been Head of Projects. Before joining Morphic, Lars worked at Westinghouse Electric Sweden, where he was Head of Projects and a member of the Service management team. Dynawind AB and Kenersys Gmbh announce today that they amicably dissolve its current cooperation for the Scandinavian market.

Lars Öhlin holds an M.Sc. in Mechanical Engineering specializing in energy and has many years' experience from working in energy and infrastructure.

"Lars will bring exactly the type of expertise we need for managing and administering major energy and infrastructure projects," Martin Valfridsson, President and CEO of Morphic Technologies, says.

At Westinghouse Electric Sweden Lars was responsible for tender projects and later for implementation of a project aimed at upgrading and raising the output of Sweden's Oskarshamn 3 nuclear reactor. His previous positions include the role of Chief Technical Project Manager at Bombardier Transportation Sweden AB, and Project Manager and Line Manager in various positions at ABB Atom.

Lars joined Dynawind as Project Manager on December 1, 2008 and will now take over as CEO with immediate effect.

Change in current cooperation with Kenersys Gmbh

Dynawind AB and Kenersys Gmbh announce today that they amicably dissolve its current cooperation for the Scandinavian market under which Dynawind AB has been Kenersys's exclusive sales agent.

Going forward Kenersys will cover the Swedish market from its newly opened office in Stockholm. Dynawind will continue to be Kenersys's preferred supplier of towers for the Swedish market.

"Dynawind's strengths are tower manufacturing and service. We will focus our activities on tower manufacturing as well as providing service for wind turbines to our existing as well as new customers. We look forward to supporting Kenersys's continued expansion in Sweden by providing these key competences", says Lars Öhlin, Managing Director, Dynawind AB

"Opening our own sales office in Sweden is a logical next step in our Scandinavian strategy. Dynawind has done a good job in making the market aware of the Kenersys brand and we look forward to having them support our growth as a key supplier"
Andreas Reuter, says CEO Kenersys GmbH
