

Teleca India Inaugurates New 400 Seater Design Center in Bangalore

Mobile solutions company moves to new premises after expanding to over 300 professionals within 1.5 years.

Malmö, Sweden – May 27, 2010 – Teleca, a world-leading supplier of solutions and services to the mobile industry today announced that it will be inaugurating its new 400 seat facility in Bangalore on May 27.

Since commencement of commercial operations opening in India in January 2009, the company has grown exponentially, gaining many blue-chip customer wins along the way. Teleca has already moved into its new facility in the Salarpuria Hallmark center in Bangalore, and will now officially inaugurate the office at a ceremony on May 27. Among the 40 or more guests will be prominent members of the International Mobile Infrastructure, and the Swedish Ambassador to India, His Excellency Lars-Olof Lindgren. The location of the new office is important for Teleca as it puts the company within eight kilometres of many of their blue-chip international customers.

“Moving into these premises is a strategic move to help us better serve our customers and grow others.” Says Vividh Baru, Director & Head of Sales for India, at Teleca. “We have quickly developed into a key provider of mobile solutions for many of these companies, successfully completing projects in application development for operating systems that include iPhone, RIM, PalmOS, Windows Mobile, Android and Symbian. We are also widely known as a Center of Excellence in multimedia and for our expertise in testing, building and releasing all forms of mobile software. We are now over 300 engineers doing our utmost to help our customers.” We plan to expand our client footprint in India by leveraging our wireless domain expertise to build new relationships across MNC R&D captives, media/content customers and operators.

“Our vision for Teleca India is to establish a full design center offering end-to-end solutions spanning the entire mobile internet value chain.” Says Anette Gregow, SVP Marketing and Communications. Inaugurating this new facility shows the mobile development community in India – and the world – that we are well on the way to realizing our vision. Through our new center in Bangalore we can carry on with the work of making our customers more successful through the innovative solutions we offer.”
