New book Perspectives on Design Colorado features the intriguing creations and philosophies of the state's most talented architects, home builders, design specialists, artisans and craftsmen with a photographic tour of their most remarkable residential designs

Dallas—Perspectives on Design Colorado (Panache Partners, September 2010, published by Brian Carabet and John Shand, distributed by IPG) is the newest addition to a popular hardcover book series that spans the United States, Canada, and the UK. The book is a pictorial journey from conceptualizing a dream home, to putting together the finishing touches, to creating an outdoor oasis. Alongside phenomenal photography, interesting editorial gives readers rare insight about how these trendsetters achieve such works of art as the design experts share their personal perspectives on design. Chapter by chapter, the 192-page volume with upward of 200 vibrant images takes readers through the exciting process whereby a luxury home comes to fruition: Concept + Structure—the architectural idea evolves into a buildable plan and the design becomes a three-dimensional reality; Elements of Structure—built-in components set the quality and tone; Elements of Design—soft finishes, art, and high-end accoutrements complement the home's original design; Living the Elements—lighting, landscaping, and water features complete the composition.

Within Perspectives on Design Colorado, the state's finest home design professionals share their wisdom, experience, and talent. The book is filled with thought-provoking, witty, and advice-oriented quotes. Valerie Alexander Yaw declares: "Good landscaping balances environmental stewardship with exceptional design aesthetic," while Chris Renner advises: "Never underestimate the importance of researching and sourcing materials. The right materials always elevate the project."

In addition to experiencing captivating residences designed by highly regarded architects like Sears Barrett and Bill Poss and built by firms such as Pinnacle Mountain Homes and Brikor Associates, readers will savor viewing the fine elements that make these luxury homes so magnificent—the artful pieces of Spiro Lyon Glass and Brown Dog Designs are sure to delight. Within Perspectives on Design Colorado, the professionals of Bluegreen, crafters of the ultimate in outdoor living spaces, share the sophistication of their meticulous landscape architecture; the leadership of Digital Media Innovations illuminates the world of home theaters, lighting, sound, and
