Bink selects Millistream as new provider of market data

Bonnier has chosen Millistream as new provider of market data for the financial web sites of the Bonnier Group. Bink, the new Bonnier web media company, has signed the agreement with Millistream.

The agreement between Bink and Millistream means that the web sites di.se, dn.se, va.se and privataaffarer.se will receive market data from Millistream.

Millistream will deliver continuous updates of Nordic and international prices for shares, mutual funds, ETFs, commodities, forex together with news and company information for display on the financial web sites.

Bink has chosen a solution based on Millistream Database Application, MDA, for receiving the data. Millistream also delivers a hosted graph solution and an advanced portfolio service.

"We found that Millistream was able to provide the best system for the needs of the Bonnier financial web sites," says Mats Göthlin, CTO of Bink.

"We are very pleased that Bink has chosen Millistream as new provider of market data", says Per Rastin, CEO of Millistream. "It proves that our solutions are very well adapted for the needs of the financial market in the Nordics", says Per Rastin.

The first site that has started to use Millistream data is dn.se. In 2011, di.se, va.se and privataaffarer.se will also switch to Millistream data.
