Swedish Post Office signs framework agreement with Cell Network

The agreement means Cell Network will be entrusted with the task of offering consultancy services to the Swedish Post Office and continues a collaboration of several years' standing which now includes the entire Swedish Post Office organisation.

"This is a strategically important deal for Cell Network, since our goal is to bring in more customers in the logistics field that have need of our knowledge within logistical and mobile solutions. In addition, this purchase means that the market has confidence in Cell Network as a company," says Michael Jäderlind, Sales Manager, Cell Network, division Stockholm.

The framework contract applies until 31 August 2002 with an option to extend one year at a time. It opens the possibility of Cell Network, in conjunction with three other suppliers, offering advanced services and solutions to the Swedish Post Office.

"We have an understanding of the business processes in logistics companies and have a grasp of all technical fields from business systems to web and mobile solutions. It means that we have the experience and skill required to integrate mobile technical solutions," says Jäderlind.
