Frontec signs global agreement with Alfa Laval

Frontec and Alfa Laval have signed a three-year agreement on integration solutions. The agreement, which makes Frontec a global supplier of integration services and software to Alfa Laval, is worth approximately SEK 6 million.

“We are very pleased that Alfa Laval has entrusted us as a supplier of both services and software,” says Peter Falk, Sales Representative at Frontec eBusiness. “The fact that we are local yet have extensive, broad-based experience nationally and internationally in systems integration naturally played a determining role when Alfa Laval chose us a global supplier.”

Alfa Laval will also standardize its purchasing processes for AMTrix integration software via Frontec.

“Frontec’s experience in integration, from integrated business processes to support software, was an important factor when we decided on a partner,” says Åke Englund, Project Manager at Alfa Laval. “By selecting Frontec as a supplier of both products and services, we feel that we will receive the best support for our ebusiness efforts today and in the future.”
