Swedish Thalamus delivers Internet equipment to Norway

Thalamus Consulting AB, a subsidiary of Thalamus Networks AB, recently received an order of Internet equipment worth approximately SEK 3 Million.

The order came from Telenor Avidi, Norwegian Telecom Company Telenor's cable division in Oslo, Norway. The equipment will be delivered during the second quarter of 2002.

- We are glad that colleagues in the business value security and scalability by using equipment and solutions delivered by Thalamus, says Urban Axelsson, Chief Project Manager of Thalamus Consulting.

The equipment, consisting of a central unit and modems, will be used for local communication over cable TV networks.

Thalamus' and Telenor's well-established relationship dates back to 1999. By entering this new business deal, Telenor entrusts Thalamus with yet more responsibility.

Thalamus Networks (www.thalamus.se) offers real estate companies, net owners and residents broadband based IT services, creating the foundation for efficient property management, safe and fast communication and higher real estate- and net owner value.

Thalamus Networks' turnover is SEK 40 Million. Thalamus is quoted on the O list of the Stockholm Stock Exchange. The company was founded in 1987 and has about 30 employees in Ängelholm, Gothenburg and Stockholm. Thalamus Operations AB and Thalamus Consulting AB are two subsidiaries of Thalamus.
