PRESS RELEASE

STOCKHOLM, May 30, 2002

TrustLink to provide support for Symbian OS v7.0 to coincide with upcoming Sony Ericsson P800 smartphone release

Stockholm, Sweden –TrustLink AB, a recognized leader in mobile technology and business applications, announced that it will be shipping versions of its products that run on Symbian OS v7.0 to coincide with the release of new advanced multimedia smartphones later this year. The first Symbian OS v7.0/UIQ product to ship, TrustLink Service – a mobile application for field service – will be available in Q3 of this year. TrustLink Sales, for the mobile sales force, will follow in Q4.

“The convergence of handheld computers and mobile phones is definitely the way of the future” says Mats Bergström, Managing Director of TrustLink AB. “With the release of open smartphones such as Sony Ericsson’s P800 this fall, it is imperative that mobile applications support Symbian OS v7.0. In keeping with our product strategy, TrustLink is committed to providing its products on any major platform as soon as it is available. There is no doubt that Symbian OS v7.0 will be a major platform.”

About TrustLink

TrustLink is a leading provider of mobile business applications using the latest in wireless and PDA technology.
