KMT-company receives large order from new US customer

Lidköping, one of the subsidiaries of KMT, listed on the Swedish Stock Exchange, recently received a large order from a new customer within the American automotive industry. The customer is one of the leading developers and manufactures of components and systems for different kinds of vehicles.

This is historically one of the largest orders for Lidköping, consisting of complete systems and surrounding equipment for high-precision grinding.

“Getting an order of this magnitude from a new client in the US proves that our products can compete on the world market when it comes to technical level and process solutions as well”, says Johan Westberg, President at Lidköping.

“We have targeted on the American automotive industry for some time and now we are getting results”, comments Björn Kumlin, CEO of the KMT Group.
