Song Networks transfers its Shops in Finland to a partner

New partner will double the distribution coverage in small business segment

Song Group Finland Oy, the Finnish subsidiary of Song Networks Holding AB, (Stockholmsbörsen: SONW), announced today that it has signed an agreement with a new partner, Teleheino Oy, whereby Teleheino will take over the chain of shops of Song Networks. Teleheino will offer Song's data and Internet services to the small business segment, doubling Song's sales coverage and broadening the geographical reach to this segment into five new cities in Finland.

Song Networks continues to sharpen its focus in core business through a partnership agreement with Teleheino. As part of the agreement, Song will transfer all of the existing nine shops in Finland to Teleheino. As a result of this transaction there will be a 70 MSEK decrease in direct revenue and a 7,4 MSEK enhancement on EBITDA per annum.

The partner Teleheino has strong presence in central Finland, doubling Song Networks' distribution coverage in the small business segment. Teleheino will be Song's most important partner towards the small business segment within data and Internet services, with now eighteen shops all over Finland.

"Teleheino is the perfect partner for us," says Olli Nuuttila, Vice Managing Director of Song Networks Oy, Finland: "They have the expertise and resources to further develop this business in close cooperation with us".

"These shops give us a quick way to expand our coverage in Finland," says Pasi Heino, Chairman of Teleheino: "We are eager to offer our customers Song's data and Internet services, which have increasing demand in our area of operations".

The shops were acquired in 2000 to quickly set up a distribution network for Song's fibre network in Finland. Their portfolio consists of data and Internet services and lower margin products and services such as mobile subscriptions and phones.
