Trio: Spring Mobil to go mobile using Trio Mobile Office

As stated in a previous press release, Trio signed an agreement in July with Sweden's fourth-largest mobile operator, Spring Mobil, for Trio's mobile office solution, Trio Mobile Office. Trio Mobile Office will be installed in Spring Mobil's mobile telephony network during the autumn and the target group will be corporate customers. Spring Mobil is a wholly owned subsidiary of Swefour, and helps companies go mobile at fixed network rates.

The mobile office target group consists of Spring Mobil's corporate customers, and the solution enables them to build up their own GSM networks within offices and industrial areas. Trio Mobile Office allows customers to go over to the exclusive use of mobile telephones while still having access to full switchboard functionality, including a sophisticated queuing function, access to an attendant workstation, forwarding, message handling and a dynamic corporate directory.

"Our business concept is based on substituting mobile phones for fixed telephony while maintaining top standards of quality and functionality. So it seemed a self-evident choice to sign an agreement for Trio Mobile Office. Trio's sophisticated telephony solutions enable Spring Mobil's customers to offer top-level customer service," says Ulf Groth, President of Spring Mobil.

Trio's solution includes all the company's crucial telephony functions, as well as telephony-related handling services such as a switchboard attendant, receptionist, switchboard number and a queuing function. This is a turnkey mobile solution for all the company's employees.

"We are particularly pleased to be signing an agreement with Spring Mobil, since both Trio and Spring Mobil focus entirely on corporate telephony. We regard Spring Mobil's choice of Trio as the logical result of Trio's position as a global leader when it comes to providing mobile operators with corporate telephony", says Sverker Hannervall, President of Trio.
