

MultiQ enters into framework agreement with multinational group

Today saw the Malmö company MultiQ enter into a framework agreement with a multinational group. The initial phase of the agreement involves supplying over 5000 flat monitors to the groups stores in around 20 countries over a 3-year period.

Unfortunately, at their own request, we are unable to name the customer, says Martin Gullberg, MD at MultiQs head office. However, this does not make the agreement any less important to us, primarily because the customer has asked for all the distinctive features the MultiQ screen offers for public and therefore demanding environments. The design with its aluminium chassis and protective glass makes it resistant to knocks and bumps as well as being easy to clean. Customer-specific solutions make the screens easy to integrate and simple to use and their pure styling allows them to fit right into the customers environment. On top of that there are the ergonomic advantages with negligible emissions to reassure users. In brief, we are very pleased to have really been able to provide the custom design flat monitors concept in its entirety.
