

19 September 2005

Michel de Lambert appointed head of Scania Latin America

Michel de Lambert joined the Scania Group on 1 September 2005 and will become Senior Vice President Latin American Operations on 1 January 2006. In this position he will be a member of Scania's Group Management and report to Leif Östling, president and CEO of Scania.

Michel de Lambert, 58, has held various positions in the transport industry, most recently as CEO of the Charles André Group in the area of hazardous cargo transportation. Between 2000 and 2003 he was employed by the Fiat Group and served as CEO of Iveco for two years.

Before joining Iveco, Mr de Lambert was CEO of Fraikin, a leading European truck contract hire company. Between 1989 and 1993 he was employed by the Bombardier Group, and as CEO of Bombardier Eurorail supplied the passenger shuttle trains for the Eurotunnel.

For further information, please contact Cecilia Edström, Senior Vice President Corporate Relations, telephone +46 8 553 835 57.

Portrait photo is available on www.scania.com.

Scania is one of the world's leading manufacturers of trucks and buses for heavy transport applications, and of industrial and marine engines. A growing proportion of the company's operations is comprised of products and services in the financial and service sectors, assuring Scania customers of cost-effective transport solutions and maximum uptime. Employing 30,000 people, Scania operates in about 100 countries. Research and development activities are concentrated in Sweden, while production plants are located in Europe and South America, with facilities for the global exchange of both components and finished vehicles. In 2004, invoiced sales totalled SEK56.7 billion and net income amounted to SEK4.1 billion.

Scania press releases are available on the Internet, www.scania.com

[N05044EN] H-Å Danielsson