Nexus Messaging Solutions Partners with Jabber, Inc.

Nexus Messaging Solutions (formerly Verimation), a leading developer of messaging and collaboration software based in Sweden, today announced the start of a partnership with Denver-based Jabber, Inc. The partnership involves integrating the Jabber Extensible Communications Platform™ (Jabber XCP™) instant messaging and presence solution into their neonInsight™ family of products. The agreement also includes sales, support and training of the Jabber XCP platform and related products.

“We’re very excited about working with Jabber”, said Jan Wallgren, Managing Director of Nexus Messaging solutions. “Jabber XCP offers the scalability and reliability our customers demand, and represents an important step in our strategy to integrate best-of-breed products into neonInsight to provide a complete business communication platform.”

“Nexus is a very interesting partner for us”, said Rick Emery, Vice President of Business Development at Jabber. “With their long history of working with large-scale installations, their strength in the European market and the continuing convergence of different communication modes into a single integrated stack make this a good fit for us.”

Integration of Jabber XCP into neonInsight™ is expected for general availability at the beginning of the fourth quarter this year. Sales, installation and support are available immediately.
