The number of visitors to Euroseek increased by 29 percent this summer

The number of unique visitors to the Internet operator Euroseek's portals increased by 29 percent between May and July. The total amount of surfing normally drops during July, but Euroseek noted a powerful increase and registered some 2.6 million unique visitors during this month.

Euroseek has been developed during the spring from a traditional search engine to be able to offer a wide range of information and Internet services. Proof of this is the number of visitors.

“This powerful increase is mainly because we have diversified the content in Euroseek's portals”, explains Catherine Sahlgren, Managing Director of Euroseek.

Taking into account the last three months from April to July the number of unique visitors has in fact increased by a full 43 percent.

The Euroseek portals include all-European Euroseek, swedish Tjohoo, weatherservice HALO and the public informationregister Eurolocal.
