Invitation to press conference

Sectra is first in the world with product to revolutionize mammography

Sectra plans clinical trials at Swedish hospitals of a new product that can radically reduce the risks inherent in mammography.

Program:

Torbjörn Kronander, President Sectra Imtec, presents the product.

Mats Danielsson, Associate Professor of Particle Physics, who was involved in developing the technology, explains the product.

Ingvar Andersson, Chief Senior Physician and mammography expert, comments on significance for women in Western Europe and USA and for Sweden as a pioneering country within mammography.

Time and place:

Thursday, November 2, 11:00 a.m., Royal Swedish Academy of Engineering Science (IVA), Grev Turegatan 16, Stockholm.

Presentation from 11:00 to 11:20 a.m., followed by an open forum for questions and answers and time for private interviews.

You are cordially invited.

Torbjörn Kronander

The presentation will be in Swedish, but if there is interest, a presentation will be arranged thereafter in English. A press release on the product is available in English and German.

If you have any questions regarding the press conference and for notification to attend, please contact Helena Wälivaara, +46 708 23 92 84.
