Resco is building a services portal for Vasakronan

Resco has been commissioned to build an extensive services portal for Vasakronan. Vasakronan will be offering its tenants an expanded range of services. Initially the order is worth around 5.5 MSEK.

Resco has signed a strategic Web agreement with the real estate company Vasakronan, which is in line with Resco's strategy of total commitment. The overall purpose of this undertaking is to offer Vasakronan's tenants a considerably higher level of service by means of an increased range of services via the Web.

Initially the services will be intended for the companies that are tenants of Vasakronan in Stockholm. Resco will be totally responsible for the systems in the project, and the business system Axapta which is a flexible Web-adapted business system will be implemented as the basic platform. Initially the value of the order will be of the order of magnitude of 5.5 MSEK.

- "I consider the agreement with Vasakronan to be yet another confirmation of the fact that Resco is very well positioned in the long term: on the one hand because of a balanced mix of competence and a sufficient volume of large-scale comprehensive projects and, on the other hand, a clear focus on established and stable customers. Resco sees the agreement with Vasakronan as very promising in both the long and short term", says Kjell Jacobsson, CEO and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Resco AB.
- "To meet the tenants' demand for a wider range of services we are building up a services business within Vasakronan", comments Jonas Lindegren, the Head of the Services Business Area at Vasakronan. "We are starting with ten services and getting together with our tenants to find further ways of development. We have chosen to work together with Resco primarily because of their capacity to take total responsibility and because of their experience with e-commerce."
