StreamServe And AvantGo Form Strategic Alliance Enabling Wireless Integration to Business Applications.

Stockholm, Sweden and Hertfordshire, UK (November 7, 2000) StreamServe AB, a leading provider of eBusiness communication software, has signed a strategic alliance agreement with AvantGo, Inc. Europe Ltd., a leading provider of mobile infrastructure software and services. The agreement enables StreamServe and AvantGo to add the companies' respective technologies to their existing product offerings.

With the StreamServe-AvantGo solution the customer can have all documents and data in their central business application environments available in handheld devices wirelessly and off-line in a very flexible and scalable way. The solution also enables mobile applications such as time reporting, order handling, service reporting, sales support and works on both Palm OS and PocketPC platforms.

"We experience a high demand from our current and prospective customers to bridge the gap between their central business applications, the Internet and wireless technologies. StreamServe with its European presence and ERP integration and transformation capabilities was clearly a very strong solution to fulfill our high requirements", said Phil Hibberd, General Manager, AvantGo Europe Ltd.

By complementing StreamServe's first-class ERP integration and communication software products with the AvantGo product offerings, customers will be able to get an outstanding software solution for making business-critical information and data available on mobile devices and thereby staying ahead of competition.

"The partnership with AvantGo is another strong confirmation that we are in the forefront of bringing forward first-class products and services, and will further enable us to leverage the growing demand for integrating business applications with wireless devices", commented Jakob Svärdström, COO at StreamServe. Mr. Svärdström continues, "This strategic alliance will drive increased revenues for both companies and will be a natural addition to our already comprehensive communication platform."
