The Morphic subsidiary Morphic Exergy Fuel Cells has today signed a distribution agreement with Narbonne Accesories of France for its Polaris 140 portable fuel cell. The order has guaranteed minimum value of SEK 48m. The product has been approved by the customer and deliveries will begin in September 2009.

Polaris 140 is a compact portable fuel cell which in this particular application runs on NBH4, a chemical compound that is distributed in liquid form (dissolved in water) and forms hydrogen continuously at the same rate as it is consumed in the fuel cell.

Narbonne will sell Polaris 140 to owners of house trailers and motorhomes, who attach it to the electrical systems of their recreational vehicles to charge their existing batteries.

“The product and area of application are exactly right and show not only that the market has embraced our offer but also indicate that our strategy of focusing our resources on concrete product development rather than visions will generate business. The changes we have now been implemented paved the way for our long-planned share offering and will enable us to fund production for orders like this”, Martin Valfridsson, President and CEO of Morphic Technologies AB, says.
