UK FTSE Financing Company Paragon Group engage B2net to deliver complete IT transformation project

Proact's UK operation, B2net, which was acquired in April, continues to sign new contracts, this time with the FTSE 250 specialist financing company Paragon Group.

B2net have recently secured an IT Transformation Project with Paragon Group. Following a period of significant growth the FTSE 250 specialist financing company required a more flexible, agile and resilient IT infrastructure to underpin future growth and to bring new services to market. B2net have been engaged to Design, Implement and Project Manage a new data and wireless network, desktop refresh and enhanced virtualized server/storage and business continuity environment.

"It is fantastic to see the B2net Strategic Consulting team continue to secure complex IT transformation projects such as this contract win with Paragon. Over the last 18 months this type of project has become increasingly common for B2net and our team has rapidly become recognised across the industry for our excellence in this area.

Contract wins like this are a testimony to the real business value our clients gain from our innovative cross-disciplinary approach to identifying the opportunities for and then delivering business and technology change. Our flexible and agile transformation methodology is proven to deliver results across all sectors equally effectively, and is a great example of how we have worked with our customers to respond to their needs as their businesses grow and change at an increasing pace.

Our customers have been tremendously supportive of the Proact acquisition, and are as excited as we are about the synergies that the integration of the two companies will bring in forming the leading integration partner of its type in Europe" says Jason Clark CEO of B2net UK.
