

office* show announces initial exhibitor list

British Airways, John Lewis, Kafevend, Antalis, Flybe, The Westminster Collection, i-FM.net, and Happy Box London are just a some of the first time exhibitors ready to meet over 5000 office* visitors, when the dedicated event for PAs, EAs and Office Managers returns to London's Earls Court on 15-16 September 2011.

With just over two months still to go, the organisers, Diversified Business Communications UK, say that over two thirds of the companies set to exhibit at office* 2011 are new to the event, ensuring visitors will benefit from a unique opportunity to see a host of new products, services and technologies that could revolutionise the way they work.

"With so many new companies taking space, and many of our returning exhibitors preparing to launch new products and services on to the market, there certainly won't be a shortage of innovation on the show floor," comments office*'s event manager Ali Mead.

Given that researching new products and meeting new suppliers were both cited by over 90% of last year's surveyed visitors as being pivotal incentives for attending, office* has grown to accommodate over 175 exhibitors for its second show. The event's breadth of appeal is demonstrated by the incredible range of business-to-business suppliers confirmed to date:
