Bemannia makes a grand slam at the Royal institute of Technology – KTH

The Royal institute of Technology, KTH, has conducted a procurement of staffing and Bemannia was chosen the unanimous supplier of all service categories.

KTH answers for a third of Sweden's capacity of technical science and engineering education at institute level.

KTH was founded 1827 and is the largest institute of technology in Sweden. Since 1917, KTH is situated in the Central Stockholm district Norra Djurgården, but KTH is also represented in Kista, Haninge, Flemingsberg and Södertälje.

In total, KTH resides over 14000 annual students at basic and advanced level, over 1600 active postgraduate (research) students and 4200 employees. The education and the research is of high international class and covers a wide area – from natural science to all branches within engineering as well as architecture, industrial economy, social planning, work science and environmental engineering.

During the autumn 2011, KTH conducted procurement within the service categories: General administration, Economy administration, Staff administration, IT, Marketing and Information, Archive and Registry, Law as well as Service.

Tenders were presented and accepted in each of these 8 categories. Bemannia was the unanimous winner of ALL these categories.

The frame agreement runs for 2 years with possibility to prolongation 1 + 1 year, i.e. until 2016 and the value during the contract time is estimated to 35-40 million SEK.

- We are naturally very proud of this massive and qualified frame agreement. We will now reinforce our main office in Stockholm in order to respond to the increased demand this frame agreement will entail. It is a magnificent feather in Bemannia's hat – to supply one of the best institutes in Sweden with such qualified staff, says Staffan Bruzelius, general manager at Bemannia.
